

We had a busy week last week making bird feeders and getting ready for the Big Garden Bird Watch. So this week we are going to identify birds in our gardens or local outdoor places. Hopefully the birds have been busy eating the food we have put out and invited their friends to join them.

- . What you need to do this week:
- Keep your bird feeders topped up (it is not too late to make one)
 - Ideally print off the bird spotting sheet (or open it on a device and have paper to record)
 - You may wish to have a camera and binoculars at the ready
 - Find a quiet spot to hide out of view where you can see the birds- you could use your den building skills to make a bird hide
 - Be super silent and still and wait for the birds to come- look up, down and all around!
 - Over an hour, identify and count the number of birds that you can see. Count and record the most birds you see together at one one time to make sure you don't count the same bird over again. Mark down the number of each bird using tallys on your sheet
 - If you have registered for the Big Garden Bird Watch on the RSPB website then don't forget to record your results and please share results or photographs with us on Facebook @Outdoor Adventures Forest School
